

HORIZON

Rick Ingram, leader and founder of Horizon, started out in theater. After performing in various plays, Selma, The Fantastics, and Guys and Dolls to name a few, Rick decided to put a singing group together. The group quickly began to gain notoriety after releasing a hit single called Swing Engine. The song, famous throughout the East Caribbean and parts of the US, opened many doors for Horizon. Rick is also a stage and film director as well as writer. His group, Horizon, presently performs their Motown and More show nationally and internationally and is a headliner act for four major cruise lines.

Prentiss Jones started singing in his school choir and later joined various singing groups throughout the city of Detroit. A dancer by nature and affectionately known as "Smoke" quickly became the delight of every group he performed with. While hosting a city-wide karaoke contest, he was spotted by a talent scout for Ingram Productions and was offered an opportunity to join the group Horizon and is presently one of the lead singers for the group.

Earl Vinson has been an all-around entertainer for many years. He started singing in his church choir, then quickly moved on to gain experience in acting and dancing. He landed many local commercials and one national commercial for an anti-smoking campaign, "Smoking is Bouge." He also starred in a regional dance show called, The Scene, and was a finalist on the national dance show, Dance Fever. Earl is presently a lead and background singer for Horizon.
