

The Limelitters:

“If the Kingston Trio are the undergraduates of big-time folk singing, the Limelitters are the faculty.”

~ Time Magazine

“The Limelitters dazzled the audience with their legendary folk singing style... A spectacular musical treat not soon to be forgotten...”

~ The News and Courier, Charleston, SC

“...The Limelitters are a timeless delight for children of all ages.”

~ The San Francisco Chronicle

“... Rousing entertainment... An historically significant and outstanding group of artists. If you have the opportunity to book them, do so!”

~ ACUCAA Events Reports

“The respect these guys have for the past, for the tradition, and the ears and voices they have for the present and future, make for a group that is both timeless and timely.”

~ Carey Driscoll - Acoustic Music San Diego

"The group proved it still deserves its old name, "The Fabulous Limelitters."

~ The Hollywood Reporter

"Sheer delight from beginning to end."

~ El Camino College, Torrance, CA

“You three guys have wonderful and unique powerful voices and when you sing individually you have standout voices but when you sing together you have a blend that is like no other folk group playing today that I have heard. I think that the three of you capture what was so wonderful about 60's Folk Groups and that is the harmony blend that becomes one complete voice. You guys have that and dare I say it, you guys sound better to me than the original Limelitters because of that incredible blend.”

~ Jerry Gallagher - The Lehigh Valley Folk Music Society

“The Limelitters were a great success as they performed at the Yavapai College Performance Hall. Applause and cheers resounded throughout the Hall as our audience thrilled at the sound of old favorites and smooth harmony. A wonderful afternoon was shared by all in attendance at the sold-out event.”

~ Susan Garner, Yavapai College Community Events

“The Limelitters thrilled our audience with harmonies and humor that the original Limelitters would be proud to see continuing their tradition of excellent folk song singing.”

~ Joan Stadsklev - Chipola College, Marianna, FL

“They were simply great. The audience loved them. They create a perfect sound with great harmonies and excellent musicianship.”

~ Colin Bissett – Largo Cultural Center, Largo, FL

“The Limelitters took the stage last. The group has evolved over 48 years, and none of the original members remain. I was prepared for disappointment. Little did I know how good they'd be. Lead singer Mack Bailey has a tremendously strong, soulful voice with a sweetness that would bring a tear to an Irish mother's eye.”

~ Fran Fishman – Sun Times, University Park, IL
