

SINATRA BENNETT & ME

Versatile, funny and very entertaining, MICHAEL B. LEVIN takes the audience on a musical journey through some of the great songs that the audience grew up with and (like Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett,) then he introduces material he has done for cartoons, film soundtracks that have great commercial appeal. Michael can croon the classics but very few can sing the classic R&B songs (Temptations, Luther Vandross) as well as current artists like Brian McKnight, John Legend, etc. Michael has a four-octave range and sings tunes by Roy Orbison, Jay and the Americans as well--including the classic: "Cara Mia". Michael never lowers the keys to any song and will not perform them unless they are in the original key so he can keep the original sound/flavor. Michael is a fine storyteller and often gets the quote "you're like Billy Crystal with a great voice". Michael has been entertaining since he was a teenager (originally as a drummer) and sometimes will jump on the drums for a tune. He's fast on his feet and very in-tune with the audience. Michael continues to build his following and audiences fall in love with Michael and each other during a show and walk away with a great feeling.
