

Den and Bobbie West and their Down Home Band rocked the house

Submitted by William Bowman, Selma Community Content Provider

Friday, October 28th, 2011, 10:52pm

If you drove by the School of Discovery in Selma on Tuesday night you would have seen the place rocking and felt the foot tapping good music performed by the Down Home Band.

The band was in town performing for the Selma Community Concert Association opening of the 2011-12 season.

Den and Bobbie West and their Down Home Band put on a 2 hour show featuring all kinds of musical arrangements from classic country and blue grass to blues and pop. Mix in a lot of comedy and a music lesson on how to play a steel guitar and other instruments and you have a HEE HAW good night of entertainment.

The band consists of guitars, keyboard, bass, drums and a steel guitar. These folks are certified entertainers and musicians. You can get the papers on them.

If you had problems in your life when you came in you forgot them during their 2 hour show. The Branson style show mixed in with a little of Nashville was a foot tapping good time.

Even if you did not like the country style of music you got a lot of other forms of music mixed in so that everyone in the audience tastes for music was satisfied. No one left hungry for entertainment and music.

Den west plays everything from a steel guitar, banjo and a lead guitar to a classical guitar. He plays instrumentals and sings with lots of feeling.

When he plays the steel guitar you can feel the motions he feels inside while he picks the steel guitar and he makes you sing the lyrics of the instrumentals he plays.

His wife Bobbie sings and plays tambourine.

To learn more about Den and Bobbie West go to their website at www.denandbobbiewest.com . You can see a four minute video of the show you missed.

If you missed this show there is allot more to come for the concert series. November 17 The Pan Cake House Review will feature local entertainers. For more information on SCCA call Doris Holland at 875-9201.